Foreword

What is more pleasant than a memory?

There comes a time in the life of every man—a time when he feels the real richness of what he is and begins to recognize the dignity in simplicity—when he likes to pause a while and relive in thought with an air of pride and satisfaction those years he spent in preparation for what he has become.

This book will serve to recall to you the trials, toils, and friendships that helped to make you what you are—it is for memory's sake alone that this record is compiled. May it afford a channel for your thoughts when, in future years, you chance to recant the story of your own college days.

The Faculty

These are the people whom we face every day. We know them for what they teach, but we can't seem to repeat what they teach at examination time. There have been many times when we thought them a bit hard on us, when we didn't quite agree with their ideas, and when we considered assignments too long; but seldom has their judgment been proved wrong. We respect them now, and we will thank and respect them more and more as time goes on and we make their teaching effective in the business world.

Seniors

It wasn't so very long ago that I came to this place and began what I have just finished—a big job well (?) done. I used to hear that a college education made a rounded mind and a finished practitioner, but now all they tell me is that the funny square hat is only the beginning. What shall I do?

Senior Officers

Charles McAdams	President
Jesse Clifton	Vice President
Leonard Warren	Secretary
Lewis Condron	Treasurer

The seniors naturally become the leaders in the student body. They are depended upon for their familiarity with college methods, both scholastic and social; then, the undergraduate admires the senior for the task he is finishing and looks forward to the day when he will be as far along.

Juniors

I am now about three-fourths of the way through a college career. The diploma doesn't seem to be so far away now, but the more I go to school the less I feel that I know. I am really broad-minded in my views, but I don't "let on." Maybe I should leave school now and take my place at the head of the business world. Surely I can do it, for I have just passed Finney Ia. Won't the homefolks be proud of me!

Sophomores

School is getting to be quite a bore. My clothes don't look as well as they used to; but that's all right, because I'm having too much fun to pay any attention to them. Mrs. Cates gave me "Hail Columbia" today, because I "haven't done one earthly thing on my set for the last three weeks." My landlady is complaining, too, about me making so much noise when I come in late after dances. Isn't that silly? Well, good-bye now. I'm going to write a letter home for some more money.

Freshmen

It certainly was a tedious job trying to decide upon a suitable college in which to develop my mind, but here I am. This is what I shall do while I am here: Study five nights a week and never go to class unprepared, make my teachers like me, date every two weeks maybe, go to bed by ten-thirty and arise early every morning, avoid wasting time in the drug stores, and write home once a week. I can't possibly go astray from this plan.

I needed a job badly. It was suggested to me that a secretarial course would solve that problem. I study shorthand half the day and typewriting the other half. There seems to be no end to it; yet I see students leaving now and then. When I finish the drills I'll be leaving to.

ODE TO FINNEY I

1

In the Bowling Green College of Commerce
A college not much for looks
Where students from over the country
Come to learn how to keep books
Is a course that most people call Finney
A course that is dreaded by all
They stand in fear of the moment
When upon them the teacher does call

2

You give up your sleep in the evening
And study your poor head off
And all you get the next morning
Is a bawling out from the prof.
Then he gives you a couple of problems
To "prepare a solution" to
And you find that your figures won't balance
Just when you think you're through

3

You start off with methods of closing
With working sheets half a mile long
And you mess with them, sorting out figures
Till you think that your reason is gone.
You get into corporations—
You've written and cussed and blottered
You've made out statements and schedules
Till you think that your stock has been watered.

4

You take up the blessed annuities
Do numerous multiplications
Knowing it's necessary
To hand in your computations.
Inventories, consignments, installments
Are all a part of the game.
You soon begin to think
That corporations were tame.

5

Now if you're an ambitious freshman
And this is your first year of woes.
Just take this as a warning
From one who has been exposed:
Go easy on the night life
And study your 112 well
For you can be sure that next year
This Finney will give you H - - !

Presenting The Activities

The student body of B. U. owes a great deal to the fraternities, sororities, and state clubs. With the exception of the opening school dance and Christmas party all social functions—dances, parties, picnics, and hayrides—are sponsored directly by these organizations. We can thank them for many pleasant hours spent during our school days.

The Alpha Chapter of the Beta Pi Honorary Accounting Fraternity is an outgrowth of the "Higher Accounting Society" which was organized in March, 1936. The fraternity was incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky on January 10, 1941, and a national organization was set up, which maintains its headquarters in Bowling Green. The purposes of this fraternity are to promote and maintain professional fellowship; to provide a means of acquainting the membership with the responsibilities of the accounting profession; and to facilitate future business and professional attainments among the members.

Membership in the fraternity is honorary as well as selective, being limited to students who are accounting majors, and have an average grade in accounting subjects of not less than "B", and a general average in all other subjects of not less than "B". Candidates must also pass a comprehensive examination covering accounting theory and practice and business law.

The primary aim of the Pi Tau Nu Fraternity is to develop well-balanced personalities among its members. The pentagon has been taken as a symbol to represent the five phases of the well-balanced life—mental, physical, religious, social, and economic fitness. The success in developing leaders through this program is shown by the large number of offices and positions of leadership held by members of this fraternity. Strict requirements for membership are maintained, and scholarship in particular is stressed through the necessity of a B average to be eligible for and to maintain membership in the fraternity.

Several Pi Tau Nu members left school during the past year to take responsible positions in the business world or to enter the armed services of the United States. Special mention should be made of several members who left thus during the 1941-42 school year and whose pictures do not appear. They are Joe E. Bynum, who was president of the fraternity for the first seven weeks of the first semester until his withdrawal from school, Robert Prince, and Berny L. Thurman.

The Toppers were organized in 1940 and received faculty recognition in 1941 to afford a continuation of fraternity for students who were formerly members of Greek-letter fraternities in other schools.

The purpose of this organization shall be to create a more close and lasting friendship among the students of the Business University; to promote useful knowledge, sound thinking, and clear expression and to foster a better understanding of citizenship; to create a spirit of fellowship so necessary to our purpose in life; and by our conduct may we contract a fraternal bond which shall not be forgotten when we meet in the serious business of life.

COUNCIL OF CLUBS

Russell H. Miller
Faculty Chairman

Something new in the Business University is the Council of Clubs. It was organized early in the term of 1941-42 for the purpose of establishing a cooperative system of social activities of B. U. organizations by which a calendar of events could be established. Each organization is represented by a council member who has a voice in all meetings.

The progress and success of the Council of Clubs is undoubtedly due to the enthusiasm and energetic support of Russell H. Miller, head of the Secretarial Department, who has given more than his share of time to the social activities throughout the school year. His supervision of entertainments has never failed to afford a genuine "good time" for all party-goers, and his eagerness to lend a helping hand in all functions far surpasses what is expected of him.

HISTORY AND ACTIVITIES

One of the oldest and most prominent among school organizations is the Cosmopolitan Club whose membership is drawn from New York to Colorado and from Canada to Cuba. This truly All-American group has bound itself together by frequent social functions and school projects.

Outstanding among the activities of the year was the Backward Dance given at the Armory in March. The Club was host to some two hundred young ladies and their "Juliets." Every one of them had a great time.

We of the Cosmopolitan Club pay tribute to the boys of B. U. who have this year answered the call to the colors. We are with you in spirit, now, Boys; and we shall be right there in the foxholes with you soon. If we don't tend to the Axis, then there isn't a street car in New York nor a cow in Texas.

The Kentucky Club was organized in the fall of 1923, the primary purpose being to foster a spirit of friendship among the students and organizations of the Business University, and also to encourage a study of history of the State.

The Kentucky Club is the largest club in the school and is well represented in all the religious, honorary, and social organizations of the school, thus proving the outstanding spirit of cooperation and fellowship of the residents of the "Bluegrass" State.

The Mississippi Club is one of the oldest and most firmly founded of the state clubs, carrying on the true spirit of the friendliness typified by the Deep South. The Club can well be proud of the representation of its members in all the campus activities of the University. The principal objectives of the club are: To promote good fellowship among all Mississippi students and to sponsor social activities for both its members and others to enjoy.

The club is proud that through the untiring efforts of its various committees it has been more successful financially, socially, and educationally during the current year than ever before.

It is our sincere hope that each year hereafter the Bowling Green Business University can be rightfully proud of its students from the Magnolia State.

The Tennessee Club, one of the largest state clubs of the Bowling Green Business University, was organized for the purpose of fostering fellowship among its members and sponsoring social functions for the enjoyment of the student body as well as for the organization itself. In glancing back over past years, it is clear that this purpose has been lived up to; for the club has sponsored numerous enjoyable entertainments and has carried on many worthwhile school activities.

The BAPTIST STUDENT UNION plays an important part in the lives of Baptist students in the Business University. It first appeared in the 1941 TOWERS as a school activity.

There are a great many more things put within the reach of Baptist students through membership in the B. S. U.—things that give them a better perspective of the pursuits of the organization. The B. S. U. gives each member an opportunity to use his own talents in enlarging his knowledge of goodness and respect and an interpretation of a truly religious life. There is no limit to the support one may receive by living according to the principles for which the B. S. U. is established.

It is impossible to show here the faces of all who took active part in getting this annual to press. We have had excellent cooperation from every member of the faculty and the student body, as well as many local business men. Listed below, however, are several students who have been especially cooperative; and whom we thank profoundly for very valuable assistance and suggestions:

All of us have combined our efforts in an attempt to present to you, the student body, an Annual which you could be proud of and which in the future will be a storehouse for your memories of happy days spent under the Towers of old B. U. Whether we were successful or not, we have no way of knowing now; so we will just say, "Here's your Towers for 1942, and we hope that you like it."

PI TAU NU

Soon after school started in September, the Pi Tau Nu Fraternity presented their Opening School Dance to give the guys and gals a chance to get acquainted. Music was by Francis Craig and his orchestra, always popular with B. U. students. The Pi Tau Nu's can boast of having the largest attendance of any dance of the year.

Another event outstanding among these fraternity socials was their Annual Banquet preceding the Christmas Party.

TOPPERS

The Toppers, the youngest of the B. U. fraternities, entertained with several successful parties during the 1941-42 term. A smoker was given in the Helm Hotel at the beginning of the year, to which all fraternities of B. U. and Western received a blanket bid, for the purpose of introducing new members of each group and renewing old acquaintances. One dance was held in the Bowling Green Armory, and the country club was the scene of a private bid party in March. Three banquets took place—one to elect officers, and dates were invited to the others.

The Toppers took first rank in the B. U. Bowling League in competition with the other fraternities of the school, high scorers being led by Ray Wolf and Cy Beard. Among the honors received by members during the year were Most Representative Boy, Vice President and Secretary of the Senior Class, Towers Editor, and Mr. Personality.

The Moving Finger writes; and, having writ,
 Moves on; nor all thy Piety nor Wit
 Shall lure it back to cancel half a Line,
 Nor all thy Tears wash out a Word of it.

How true are these words written by Omar Khayyam. How well they express the feeling which swells up within us as we think of the last year or more spent at this institution, as well as every other year of our life. These years are gone now. We can do nothing to change what has passed. Oh, how often we have wished that we could relive our past either to correct some blunder which has left an indelible mark on our memory or to recapture and this time fully appreciate those many happy hours which we let so carelessly slip by, but which have now become cherished memories.

We can do very little to rectify the mistakes of past years, but we can relive, at least in memory, the happy days of the past. But our memories are so short. Names are soon forgotten; and, after a time, faces slip into the dusk of oblivion so that soon all we have is a vague recollection of the events which we thought we could never forget.

Perhaps this is why college annuals came into being—to help us reminisce. This annual may not mean much to you when you first see it. Even after all your friends have written in it, it may still be just a picture book. But in years to come we believe you will value it and turn to it more and more. Then it will no longer be just a book; it will be your treasure chest, and hidden away under its cover will lie the happiest days of your life—your college days.
